PFAS

PFAS (per- and polyfluoroalkyl substances) comprise a large group of fluorinated chemicals that may be used to provide grease, water, or stain-resistant properties.
Glomma Papp AS confirms that PFAS-containing chemicals are not intentionally added to our products during the manufacturing process.
Based on information received from our raw material suppliers, PFAS are not known to be intentionally present in our products. However, the presence of trace amounts of PFAS resulting from unintentional contamination or background levels cannot be completely ruled out without specific laboratory testing.

For further information regarding to PFAS in our products, please refer to our separate PFAS statement, which is based on the results of laboratory testing.

We understand the significance of this declaration and are aware of the consequences of providing false or misleading information in accordance with EU legislation.
